President's statement

Looking back over the two previous annual reports, it is possible to see just how much the Health Professions Council (HPC) has developed as an organisation over the last three years. The first report was full of enthusiasm for the task ahead. The Council was looking forward to implementing the modern regulatory legislation that we had all been awaiting so long and the organisation was rising to the challenge. In the second report I see an organisation that had achieved a lot in a short space of time but was taking stock of where it had come from. The organisation at that stage had received some criticism from various quarters and, while it had implemented ahead of schedule, much of what the legislation required it to do, a period of reflection and collaboration was required.

As we come to the conclusion of the third year of operation under our own rules. This year twelve professions became thirteen. I now see an organisation that is fit for the future and growing.

Our focus has changed this year from registration renewals to fulfilling our education and training obligations. After a short but fruitful consultation in June and July on the Standards of Education and Training, the first programme of approvals conducted under HPC rules took place in the autumn of 2004 and are continuing apace. We now have approximately 350 programmes to approve across the UK and this number increases with every new profession we take on board. We have also undertaken a second consultation, on linking continuing professional development (CPD) to renewal of registration.

This has been our largest consultation to date and during the three month consultation, we held 46 events and saw over 7,000 health professionals. Our proposals for allowing registrants to decide for themselves the quantity and direction of their CPD, received an overall endorsement. The feedback we received from both written responses and from the events also identified the areas where we will need to take a different approach or issue guidance.

As I write this in April, 2005 it appears that the implementation of our CPD standards will take place in August 2006. By that time we will be able to address these issues fully and will have developed the requisite support packages requested during consultation. I know the Education Department within HPC is working hard to develop a structure that will support both our CPD and approvals processes. I thank both them and the Professional Liaison Groups (PLGs) that have been at the core of developing our plans in this area.

While the consultation exercise was a long one which stretched the organisation in a number of ways, it is this sort of interaction between the Council and its stakeholders that has been the cornerstone of our work over the past three years. Whether it be presenting to a small group of occupational therapists in Truro or to an audience of 450 at Hampden Park in Glasgow, hearing at first hand what people have to say about us and the way we are approaching our task is important to HPC and fundamental to its success.

I remember visiting Nottingham a year or so ago and asking the audience of about 100 people to raise their hands if they had ever met or heard of anyone from our predecessor, the Council for Professions Supplementary to Medicine (CPSM). No hands went up. I also got the same response when I asked the same question during the evening session. Since our inception, I believe that we will have seen and talked to over 15,000 health professionals and students, face-to-face, across the UK. This represents almost 10% of the Register. I am delighted by this and I am sure that HPC will continue the practice of going out and meeting with its registrants in the future.

The number of people on our Register increased by approximately 10,000 this year largely due to the addition of our first new profession, the operating department practitioners (ODPs). The ODPs were the first profession to knock on our door when the legislation allowing us to recommend professions for regulation came into being on July 9th 2003. After a successful consultation by the Department of Health they came on board officially in October 2004.

We expect to see the addition of a number of other professions to the Register, over the next few years, starting with the applied psychologists, either towards the end of this calendar year or the beginning of next. Over forty aspirant professions have contacted us about potential registration and I feel it is reassuring for the public to know that so many professions want to become regulated and add their name to a statutory register.

These are just a few of the highlights from the last twelve months; a slight change in focus, a large consultative exercise and the addition of a thirteenth profession. Unfortunately, in the space that I have, I am not able to go into depth about the some of the excellent work carried out by the Council and Executive. This work includes a PLG that developed HPC's health and disability guidance for applicants and education providers, our first annual partners conference, an analysis of the increasing numbers of fitness to practise hearings under our new rules or the training and recruitment of around 500 partners.¹ Suffice to say I am proud of each and every one of these achievements and thank everyone involved.

July 8th 2005 will bring to an end not only the 'grandparenting' window for twelve of our thirteen professions but also the tenure of the current Council. By the time you are reading this a new Council will be in place and charged with continuing the good work of the last three years.

It has been my pleasure to serve as President of the Health Professions Council during this time and I would like to take this opportunity to thank my fellow members of Council for the hard work they have put in over the years to help to establish HPC as the most modern healthcare regulator in the UK.

¹ Partners work as agents of the HPC. They provide the expertise the HPC needs for its decision making, and ensure that we have appropriate professional, and lay (public) input into what we do. The broad term "partners" includes a variety of different roles that can be filled by people with different experience and qualifications, from members of the public to lawyers and doctors as well as health professionals on the Register.

I know that a number of my colleagues are standing for re-election or re-appointment and may well form part of the new Council on 11 July 2005, but I want to pay tribute to and thank especially those who have decided not to stand again for re-election. They are:

Registrant Members

Mary Crawford, occupational therapist
Joanna Manning, paramedic
Clare McGartland, orthoptist
Stephen Wordsworth, operating department practitioner
Sandy Yule, radiographer

Alternate Members

Graham Beastall, clinical scientist
Rosemary Klem, radiographer
Ian Massey, prosthetist & orthotist
Gordon Sutehall, biomedical scientist

Lay Members

Colin Lea
Jackie Stark

Without the help and dedication of these people and the rest of Council we would not have learnt nor achieved all that we have since April 2002.

My very best wishes go to the new Council members. I am convinced that, with the firm foundation that you will inherit and your expertise, HPC's future augers well.

Professor Norma Brook

President

Chief Executive and Registrar's report

As the President's statement on the previous page alludes to, overall this year was one of good progress at the HPC.

Over the last year, the organisation has responded to feedback from stakeholders on the ways in which some of its processes were run. As a result we have restructured departments and developed more efficient and effective processes. I am pleased to say that as a result of this reorganisation project, HPC was awarded ISO 9001:2000 accreditation, meaning that our processes meet the comprehensive management standards set by the International Organisation of Standardisation (ISO). Our standards will continue to be assessed to ensure that we keep improving the ways in which we operate for the benefit of our stakeholders.

Over the last year, the workload of the organisation has increased as we take on new professions and develop new policy and standards. As a response, the organisation is growing and developing internally while strengthening links with a range of external organisations with a wealth of knowledge and experience. At the same time, the management team is working closely with Council to look at ways to ensure the organisation keeps improving and responding to the needs of all our stakeholders.

For an organisation such as ours, customer service is crucial, a fact often reflected in feedback we receive from registrants. In response, we have developed customer service standards. We intend to measure our performance against these standards over the next twelve months to improve our service delivery and the quality of the experience people have when contacting HPC. This is the first time in our (and our predecessor, CPSM's) history that attention has been focussed on this area and we are all keen to see the results. Another step we are taking to improve our services is to extend the opening hours of our registration departments. With registration renewals approaching, this will improve our availability, especially during our peak business times.

This is an example of how over the last year, mapping patterns of operation for the organisation has helped us to improve our efficiency. Other areas to benefit have been fitness to practise, approvals, and grandparenting and international registrations, as we are now better equipped to predict future patterns and prepare accordingly.

The business side of the organisation would not work without a solid strategy behind it. To that end the committees have again worked tirelessly to ensure that the management team have the support and guidance required to improve and develop procedures and ensure that the organisation is in a healthy state.

In 2005, the Council identified that £133,263 had been misappropriated as a result of the misuse of corporate credit cards by an employee within our finance branch.

As a result of this occurrence, the Council engaged a firm of forensic accountants to undertake an investigation of accounting practices that resulted in the irregularities and to undertake a review of related internal systems to assess their vulnerability to fraud. The Council are addressing the identified weaknesses in financial control. For further information about this theft, please see the Statement on Internal Control in the Financial Statements.

I know that quite a few of our Council members are stepping down at this election and I would simply like to add my thanks to them for the support they have given all the HPC employees over the past three and a half years. I hope they can be proud of the organisation they have helped to set up. The challenges for us over the next year will be building upon the work they have done in their committees and Professional Liaison Groups.

So finally I would like to take this opportunity to present to you our third annual report and accounts which I hope you will find of interest. The last twelve months have seen adaptation and steady forward momentum for HPC and I know that Norma and the Council agree with me when I say that we are taking great steps forward.

Statutory committee reports

1 April 2004 to 31 March 2005

Education and Training Committee

Principles

The Education and Training Committee is one of the Council's four statutory committees. Article 14 of the Health Professions Order, 2001 (the Order) states that the purpose of the Committee is to advise the Council in relation to the 'establishing of standards of proficiency... [and] the establishing of standards and requirements in respect of education and training or continuing professional development'.

Objectives

For the year running from April 2004 to March 2005, the Committee identified five key tasks:

1. to establish the Council's Standards of Education and Training;
2. to replace the old CPSM Boards' approvals and monitoring processes with new generic processes which covered all thirteen professions;
3. to prepare proposals for the Council's requirements, standards and guidance on continuing professional development (CPD);
4. to prepare for the regulation of the operating department practitioners including preparing and submitting to the Council for its approval the Standards of Proficiency for the operating department practitioners, and approving the qualifications which meet these Standards and thus provide eligibility for registration; and
5. to prepare guidance to assist the interpretation of the Standards of Education and Training.

All five tasks involved consultation with appropriate interested parties.

Achievements

The Committee has one of the largest remits of all the Council's committees and once again this was a very full year. The Committee appointed three Professional Liaison Groups (PLGs) in 2003 to prepare suitable proposals and consultation documents for submission to the Committee, namely the Standards of Education and Training PLG, the Approvals PLG and the CPD PLG. Membership consisted of both Council members and representatives from interested parties, to ensure the provision of expert opinion in each of the areas under discussion.

The PLGs for Standards of Education and Training and the approvals and monitoring process had both reported and produced their recommendations to the Committee in early 2004, and it was agreed that the consultation on both items be carried out together. This consultation began in late March 2004 and finished on 31st May 2004. Consultation events were held in six locations throughout the United Kingdom. The Standards of Education and Training (SET) are the over-arching guidance for education providers to ensure that those who successfully complete their programmes qualify for admission to the Register. The SETs establish threshold standards which aim to be broad and enabling. These will be supplemented by guidance, which will be developed separately using the expertise of a range of relevant stakeholders. The approval and monitoring of education providers and programmes aims to produce a simple yet effective process whereby Council can fulfil its duty, as outlined in the Order, without overburdening education providers. Both the SETs and the new approvals and monitoring process were agreed, after suitable amendment to take into account the results of the consultation, by the Committee and Council in July 2004, and came into effect in September 2004.

The Order allows the Council, to require registrants to undertake CPD if they are to remain on the Register. The Order states that if it does intend to make such a requirement, the Council must set standards for CPD and give further information on these standards. Following the results of its first consultation in 2002, the Council had agreed in principle that CPD will be linked to the renewal of registration. The Committee had then asked the continuing professional development PLG to advise it on the drafting of a consultation paper, which sets out the Council's proposals for draft Rules (which will need to be approved by the Privy Council before they come into effect), its Standards for CPD and its supplementary information to registrants on them. Forty six consultation events were held in 23 different locations throughout the UK, from September 2004 to the end of November. The response was good and the results are being processed. The Committee expects that its report will be published in July 2005.

Before operating department practitioners could be regulated, the Council was required to approve the Standards of Proficiency which indicate the minimum standards at which they would be required to practise. It was also required to produce a list of qualifications and their respective education providers which meet these standards. Operating department practitioners' section of the Register is now open for application and registration. Further, the education providers of operating department practitioner programmes will now be included in the approvals and monitoring process.

The Committee has recently formed a Professional Liaison Group to draft a guidance document for Education Providers on the Standards of Education and Training. This group is working with the professional bodies and will be reporting to the Committee in June 2005, prior to a consultation with stakeholders in the Autumn.

Investigating Committee

Principles

The Health Professions Order, 2001 provides that when an allegation is received, the Investigating Committee will decide whether there is a case to answer, and if so, refer the complaint to either the Health Committee or the Conduct and Competence Committee. The Investigating Committee investigates allegations that a fraudulent or incorrect entry has been made to the Register. The Investigating Committee is one of HPC's four statutory committees, and with the Conduct and Competence and Health Committees, is one of the three "practice committees".

Objectives

In practice, the Committee's functions are carried out by 'panels' on behalf of the Committee. These panels are made up of registered health professionals and lay members. The Committee's function is to set the strategy and policy that determine how these panels run, and to assess their performance. The Committee reviews allegations heard by the panels and in accordance with its Rules, the ongoing education, training and attendance of its members for the previous and subsequent 12 months.

Achievements

The Committee has met four times during the financial year and has reviewed the allegations heard by the Committee's panels during the previous twelve months.

In accordance with Article 19(1) of the Health Professions Order 2001 'the members of each Practice Committee must include registered professionals and other members, at least one shall be a registered medical practitioner.' The Health Professions Council has now formally appointed three doctors, one for each of the practice committees. Dr Nigel Callaghan was appointed to the Investigating Committee on 1st February 2005, until 8th July 2005, when the term of current Council and Committees comes to an end. A new Council will take office on 11th July 2005 and the registered medical practitioner may be reappointed for two years as of that date.

The Committee considered the process by which panel Chairmen are appointed and training is provided. As a result of this discussion, a proposal was put to the Council that Council members should no longer serve on panels, to ensure a clear separation of function. The Committee began discussion of the competency framework by which the performance of the fitness to practise panel Chairmen could be equitably assessed and suitable training provided.

The Committee discussed the use of preliminary meetings which can be held, if considered appropriate, before formal hearings. Initially, while the new fitness to practise procedures were first being implemented, these had been held before each hearing. The Committee, having sought the advice of its legal adviser, agreed to recommend to the Council that this was now unnecessary and that such meetings should only be held in cases where there were procedural matters to be resolved. If a registrant asks for a preliminary meeting to be held, they should be asked to set out the reasons for doing so.

Initially, all allegations were "screened" by members of the Investigating Committee. The Committee considered carefully whether Screeners should be appointed by the Council, as it is entitled to do under the Order. However, upon the Committee's advice, the Council has determined that Screeners will not be appointed for the time being. All allegations will be passed directly to Investigating Committee panels. Since allegations were first received under the Council's own fitness to practise process in July, almost no allegations were being 'screened out' and that it was in the interests of justice for all allegations to be considered by an Investigating Committee panel and that the process should not be bypassed.

The Committee continued to discuss the use of mediation. Under the Order, the practice committees may make use of mediators and the company Alternative Dispute Resolution has been employed to deal with cases which are considered suitable for mediation. However, so far, no case has been referred to mediation by the Committee's panels.

The Committee considered self-referral by registrants. The Council's Standards of Conduct, Performance and Ethics state that, although normally the police will contact the Council about people claiming to be members of our professions who have been convicted or cautioned, registrants must also tell the Council if they have any important information about their conduct or competence, or about other registrants and health professionals they work with. In particular, they must let the Council know straight away if they are:

- convicted of a criminal offence (other than a minor motoring offence) or accept a police caution;
- disciplined by any organisation responsible for regulating or licensing a health or social-care profession; or
- suspended or placed under a practice restriction by an employer or similar organisation because of concerns about their conduct or competence.

Historically, self-referral cases had been processed, under Council for Professions Supplementary to Medicine (CPSM) as allegations. The Committee took the view that this could not continue as it discouraged voluntary disclosure of convictions by registrants. In the Committee's view, self-referrals should be treated in the first instance as character issues in a similar way to convictions and cautions which are disclosed in the course of an application for admission to, or renewal of, registration. At this stage they would therefore be a registration rather than fitness to practise matter.

It will be made clear to registrants who refer such cases against themselves to the Council that the matter is going to be dealt with in this way, but with a warning that, if it appears that the registrant's fitness to practise is called into question, the matter will be referred to the Investigating Committee, at which time the registrant will have the opportunity to comment. At that point the matter will become an allegation and using this approach will ensure that the registrant is given the opportunity to comment and has the same rights as any other registrant facing an allegation. The Committee recommended that the Education and Training Committee establish appropriate procedures by which a panel comprised of members of that Committee, or, if it thinks fit, the Registration Committee may consider and report upon self-referrals. This matter has not yet been considered by the Education and Training Committee.

The Committee welcomed the creation of decision making checklists, which were noted as very useful aids in assisting both panel members and panel chairmen in the deliberation of fitness to practise proceedings.

Conduct and Competence Committee

Principles

The Health Professions Order 2001, provides that, if an allegation against a registrant concerns the registrant's conduct (their behaviour, including any convictions) or their competence (their professional skills); the Conduct and Competence Committee may hold a hearing and decide whether it needs to take action in order to protect the public. The Conduct and Competence Committee is one of the HPC's four statutory committees, and with the Investigating and Health Committees, is one of the three "practice committees".

Objectives

In practice, the Committee's functions are carried out by 'panels' on behalf of the Committee. These panels are made up of registered health professionals and lay members. The Committee's function is to set the strategy and policy that determine how these panels run, and to assess their performance. The Committee reviews the allegations heard by the Committee's panels and monitors the education, training, attendance and performance of its members and panel members.

Achievements

The Committee has met five times during the financial year. It has established a process by which it annually reviews the Standards of Conduct, Performance and Ethics on behalf of the Council. It has also agreed that an audit process is required which tracks and assesses the overall effectiveness of the decision-making process currently undertaken by the fitness to practise panels.

The Committee considered the process by which panel Chairmen are appointed and training is provided. As a result of this discussion, a proposal was put to the Council that Council members should no longer serve on panels, to ensure a clear separation of function. The Committee began discussion of the competency framework by which the performance of fitness to practise panel Chairmen could be equitably assessed and suitable training provided.

The Committee discussed the use of preliminary meetings which can be held, if considered appropriate, before formal hearings. Initially, while the new fitness to practise procedures were first being implemented, these had been held before each hearing. The Committee, having sought the advice of its legal adviser, agreed to recommend to the Council that this was now unnecessary and that such meetings should only be held in cases where there were procedural matters to be resolved. If a registrant asked for a preliminary meeting, they should be asked to give reasons.

The Committee revised the practice note given to fitness to practise panel members on sanctions. The Committee has also approved for recommendation to the Council, a practice note on the process which should be followed when an applicant applies for restoration to the register after being struck off.

As per Article 19(1) of the Health Professions Order 2001 'the members of each Practice Committee must include registered professionals and other members, at least one shall be a registered medical practitioner.' The Health Professions Council has now formally appointed three doctors, one for each of the practice committees. Dr Gopal Sharma was appointed to the Conduct and Competence Committee on the 1st February 2005, until 8th July 2005, when the term of current Council and Committees comes to an end. A new Council will then take office on 11th July 2005 and the registered medical practitioner may be reappointed for two years as of that date.

Following the opening of the operating department practitioner (ODP) Register on 18th October 2004, the Privy Council appointed a registrant and alternate ODP member and a lay member to Council. The lay member who was appointed to Council, Mrs Mary Clark-Glass had also been appointed to the Conduct and Competence Committee.

Health Committee

Principles

The Health Professions Order, 2001 provides that, if an allegation is made suggesting a registrant is not fit to practise because of their health, the Health Committee may hold a hearing and decide whether it needs to take action in order to protect the public. The Health Committee is one of the HPC's four statutory committees, and with the Investigating and Conduct and Competence Committees, is one of the three "practice committees".

Objectives

In practice, the Committee's functions are carried out by panels on behalf of the Committee. The panels are made up of registered health professionals and members of the public. The Committee's function is to set the strategy and policy that determine how these panels run, and to assess their performance.

Achievements

From April 2004 until March 2005, the Committee met four times. During this period, the Committee continued to monitor both the themes arising out of the allegations heard by the Committee's panels, as well as the processes involved. In accordance with the Rules, the Health Committee also reviews the ongoing education, training and attendance of its members for the previous and subsequent 12 months.

As per Article 19(1) of the Health Professions Order 2001 'the members of each Practice Committee must include registered professionals and other members, at least one shall be a registered medical practitioner.' The Health Professions Council has now formally appointed three doctors, one to each of the practice committees. Dr Christine Kenny was appointed to the Health Committee on the 1st February 2005, until 8th July 2005, when the term of current Council and Committees comes to an end. A new Council will take office on 11th July 2005 and the registered medical practitioner may be reappointed for two years as of that date.

The Committee considered the outcome of a seminar on health and disability which its Chairman, Mary Crawford and the Chairman of the Registration Committee, Prof. Rosemary Klem, had organised for 1st March 2004. A Health, Disability and Registration Professional Liaison Group was established in October 2004 and the Committee is working with the Group and the Registration Committee to prepare two publications. One will be about becoming a registered health professional – with information for disabled people about becoming a health professional and for admissions staff working on approved courses about applications from disabled people. The other contains information about the Health Professions Council health reference, for applicants to the Register, and for doctors.

In December, the Committee noted that it had received the first case that had been declared "not well founded". Part of the evidence had been based upon a psychiatric report. Upon consideration, the registrant's ability to practise was not found to be impaired. As a result, the Committee has asked that in cases where mental health is the issue in question, independent psychiatric advice be sought as a matter of practice by the Council's solicitors.

As health allegations are a new area of responsibility for regulators, the Committee agreed for the first year that a member of the Health Committee would Chair each Panel so that it was well informed when making decisions.

Non-Statutory committee reports

1 April 2004 to 31 March 2005

Registration Committee

Principles

The Registration Committee has been set up as a non-statutory sub-committee of the Education and Training Committee to help the latter fulfil certain functions under the Health Professions Order, 2001.

Objectives

The Committee's main function is to set the policy and strategy for matters that affect the registration process for UK, International and Grandparenting applicants. The Committee reviews the application and registration processes and receives regular reports from the Registration departments, as well as reports from the Fitness to Practise department on registration appeals.

Achievements

From April 2004 until March 2005 the Committee has met five times. During this period the Committee has continued to monitor the application and registration processes.

The Committee has continued to consider the issue of English language competence. Registrants' English language proficiency must equate to level eight of the International Language Testing System for speech and language therapists and level seven (or the equivalent) for the other professions regulated by the Council. The Committee has also given guidance on alternative measures of competence in English.

The Committee also discussed health and disability in relation to applications for registration. A Health, Disability and Registration Professional Liaison Group was established in October 2004 and the Committee is working with the group and the Health Committee to prepare suitable advice for prospective students, prospective registrants and existing registrants.

The Committee has identified six countries from which the largest number of international applications are currently being received, namely Australia, New Zealand, Republic of Ireland, South Africa, India and the Philippines. It has agreed, under Article 12(2)(a) of the Health Professions Order, to identify international qualifications which are comparable to those which provide eligibility for registration in the United Kingdom. The outcome for applicants who have completed a specific course in a particular institution will be reviewed and, where a minimum of ten applicants with that qualification have been eligible for Registration, that qualification will be presented to the Committee for endorsement as a comparable qualification for the purposes of registration. This process is not about approving individuals for registration nor about approving courses per se; rather, it is about establishing a list of comparable qualifications based on cumulative experience gained from repeated assessment, by the registration assessors, of the content of the course leading to a specific qualification. It should therefore greatly speed up the process of application and registration. Further, it covers only those qualifications which in themselves, without post-qualifying experience, are considered to meet the Standards of Proficiency and is thus likely to cover relatively new programmes only. This list of comparable qualifications and the process through which it is established will be subject to ongoing monitoring. An initial list of physiotherapy qualifications gained on completion of courses undertaken in particular years from named institutions has been agreed.

Communications Committee

Principles

Article 3 (13) of the Health Professions Order states that the ‘Council shall inform and educate registrants, and shall inform the public, about its work.’ The Communications Committee has been established to ensure that the Council fulfils both these obligations under the Health Professions Order, as well as a key objective of being communicative and responsive.²

Objectives

The Committee’s main objective is to set the communications strategy and to ensure that this meets the communications needs of a wide range of stakeholders. The Committee also ensures that the strategy is delivered in a targeted, inclusive, economical and simple way. HPC’s stakeholders are defined as:

1. registered health professionals;
2. people using or needing the services of health professionals;
3. stakeholder groups (including professional bodies, employers, Government, Partners); and
4. HPC staff and Council members.

Achievements

One of the key achievements of the communications strategy over the past year has been the launch of a public awareness drive which has included a public engagement day (market research) and HPC’s first national advertising campaign.

The committee noted that raising awareness about a small organisation such as HPC is challenging, due to the diversity of both the thirteen professions regulated and the target audience which spans many different sectors and age groups. However the Committee felt it was important to initially target the following two groups:

1. adults with a natural responsibility towards family health issues
2. adults with an immediate need for treatment from a health professional, or with an increased likelihood of needing treatment from a health professional.

The advertising campaign was launched in magazines and is set to expand onto the London Underground and national radio in the future. To date it has reached an estimated audience of over 25 million people and as part of our overall public awareness campaign has helped HPC to raise its profile. More information on our advertising campaign can be read on page 30.

The Committee felt it was important to identify the specific communications needs of the public through direct engagement. In July 2004, HPC held an event in Birmingham to discuss regulation in general and how people viewed the Health Professions Council in particular. The main point to arise from the day was that people trusted health professionals and expected them to maintain high standards of conduct and practice. The group understood regulation as a concept but were not aware of the different health regulators, or their roles. Overall, they felt that the existence of HPC was important and reassuring, and asked that we become more publicly visible.

The Committee felt that we should also start communicating with our Partners, who work on behalf of HPC as visitors, registration assessors and fitness to practise panel members, to help the Council carry out its duties. Over 500 Partners had been recruited by the summer

² The Council has set out the following 6 key objectives as part of its aims and vision:

1. protecting the public
2. communication and responsiveness
3. value for money and audit
4. transparency
5. collaboration
6. provision of a high quality service

of 2004 which led the Committee to decide to bring the group together for a business update, and to provide an opportunity to learn and network. As a result, over 250 Partners gathered in Manchester in September 2004 for a two day conference. From the feedback received by delegates it is clear that the conference was a valuable experience. The Committee plans to hold a similar event every 18 months to reflect on past achievements, review processes and to help develop future strategies.

In last year's annual report the Committee noted the importance of customer service for the organisation. In the past year, a full-time customer service manager has been appointed. This represents an important step in helping HPC achieve the long awaited service standards which are now operational within the customer facing departments of the organisation. On-going training and mentoring will now be a regular feature of the work staff members undertake to ensure continued development.

The Committee felt it was important to maintain and expand the existing communications with the health professionals on our Register. Over the last year, successful listening events have been held in Aberdeen, Bristol, Bournemouth, Manchester and Blackpool. In addition 46 continuing professional development (CPD) events were held across the UK which attracted over 6,500 health professionals. Overall, 2004 to 2005 has been the busiest year yet for communicating directly with registrants.

Finally we would like to thank Jo Manning, Jackie Stark and Clare McGartland, all of whom have played an important part in the Committee over the past four years. All three have decided to step down from the Council at this election and we wish them all the best for the future. We would also like to thank the committee members who are returning in July. With both returning and new, members, we look forward to continuing the good work the Committee and the department have started since 2001.

Finance and Resources Committee

Principles

The Finance and Resources Committee is a non-statutory Committee of the Council. It has been set up to make recommendations to the Council regarding the budget, and other issues relating to the finances of the Council.

Objectives

The primary function of the Committee is to monitor the finances and other resources of the organisation on behalf of the Council. Its remit also covers Human Resources, Information and IT and Office Services. The Committee is responsible for ensuring that appropriate and robust financial and accounting systems are in place.

Achievements

The Finance and Resources Committee is comprised of twelve members and met seven times during the year, the majority of members attending at least five times. The Committee also sat once as the Remuneration Committee.

During the year the Committee reviewed the various drafts of the financial statements for the year ending 31st March 2005, which eventually received clean audit opinions from the joint auditors except for the write off of expenditure arising from the misappropriation of funds, in all material aspects, the expenditure and income have been applied to the purposes intended by Parliament and the financial transactions conform to the authorities which govern them. The financial statements were laid before Parliament, the monthly management accounts which reported performance against budget throughout the year, the ongoing maintenance of the five-year financial plan and the prospective budget for the year 2005/6. Quarterly valuations and commentaries received from the investment managers, Carr Sheppards Crosthwaite Limited, which showed a healthy increase in valuation through the year, were also reviewed.

In 2005, the Council identified that £133,263 had been misappropriated as a result of the misuse of corporate credit cards by an employee within its finance branch.

As a result of this occurrence, the Council engaged a firm of forensic accountants to undertake an investigation of accounting practices that resulted in the irregularities and to undertake a review of related internal systems to assess their vulnerability to fraud. The Council are addressing the identified weaknesses in financial control. For further information about this theft, please see the Statement on Internal Control in the Financial Statements.

The financial results for the year and comments are shown elsewhere in this Annual Report but the committee noted that, whilst the income budget was attained, costs had overrun, especially on the consultation events, recruitment and training of partners and legal costs, in particular on fitness to practise hearings and registration appeals. Consequently the original budget target was not met, although some funds were transferred to reserves. The Committee recommended a reserves policy (to attain reserves equal to three month's operational costs) to Council and the policy has now been adopted.

The half-yearly production of a Risk Assessment Document was monitored by the Committee. The Audit Committee, a sub-committee of the Finance and Resources Committee, monitors the financial risks and reviews the detailed work of the external and internal auditors. It is likely to take over the whole of the monitoring of risk in the new year.

The Committee received departmental reports from all the relevant departmental managers.

The Finance department regularly reported on the financial situation which had improved considerably since the previous year. Negotiations took place with the bank to enhance interest rates by moving from a business reserve account to a special interest account and the organisation has also taken out a £1,000,000 cash bond on a three-monthly basis.

Various other projects were undertaken by the Finance department during the year. These included negotiating special terms for hotels through the organisation's travel agent, P & O Business Travel and assessing attendance allowance rates for members of Council and Partners. There is an ongoing project with regard to business rates liability.

Human Resources kept the committee apprised with regard to the recruitment and training of new employees and partners. It also took on a bespoke software system and endeavoured to bring all its procedures up to date.

Information and IT reported regularly to the committee about ongoing work. This included assisting the organisation to attain ISO certification, setting up the registration system to take operating department practitioners onto the Register, preparing for the implementation of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and developing databases and automated procedures for various departments. Significant planning work has taken place with regard to renewals, to take place in 2005 and in developing the IT Disaster Recovery Plan.

The committee has reviewed and approved the goals and objectives of all the departments that report to it. It reviewed the Chief Executive's payroll recommendations when it sat as the Remuneration Committee in March. Proper pay scales, on which we have been professionally advised, are in place.

The committee has also been reviewing the organisation's future accommodation requirements as it grows to take on more registrants.

Once again the Finance and Resources Committee has had a busy and challenging year. It is pleased that reserves are now increasing, albeit slowly, and that a budgeted surplus is planned for next year.

Audit Committee

Principles:

The Audit Committee is a non-statutory sub-committee of the Finance Committee. It reviews the HPC's financial systems by reviewing individual transactions with registrants, staff and suppliers. The Committee has oversight of the HPC's internal and external audit process.

Objectives

The Committee has been set up to act as the primary link between HPC and the joint external auditors, BDO Stoy Hayward LLP* and the National Audit Office.

Achievements:

The Audit Committee met three times during the year from April 2004 to March 2005. The Committee received detailed management letters from each auditor following the completion of the audit of the financial statements for the year ended 31 March 2004. Neither auditor made changes to the overall results of the organisation but advised us concerning various disclosure matters. Some minor internal control matters were brought to our attention and these have been addressed by the executive during the year. In particular it was not easy to audit certain aspects of the LISA registration system. This resulted in BDO Stoy Hayward needing to undertake additional manual work to prove income and deferred income figures. During 2004/5 additional computerised reporting structures have been put in place in order to overcome this problem.

The Internal Audit Department of BDO Stoy Hayward LLP is retained to perform an internal audit function for the HPC. This department is independent of the external audit function. During the year internal audit work was undertaken on purchases and payments. There were a number of matters where procedures could be enhanced and the majority of the recommendations received have now been implemented.

Internal audit work was also undertaken on the Human Resources department's systems. Unfortunately there were some areas where procedures and controls were deficient and the Human Resources department will be striving to rectify matters before a further audit is undertaken later in 2005.

Since the HPC was set up audit committee requirements have evolved and the National Audit Office facilitated a Self-Assessment Review Day, which was attended by all available members of the Committee together with members of the Finance and Resources Committee and the executive. It was agreed that the role of the Committee should be expanded to embrace overall risk and corporate governance, not just financial risks as at present, and that the Committee should report in future directly to Council rather than be a sub-committee of the Finance and Resources Committee. This is likely to take place during 2005/6.

The Committee was involved in scheduling the planning and audit of the financial statements for the year ended 31 March 2005.

Sandy Yule

Chairman

*On 19 May 2005, BDO Stoy Hayward resigned as auditors. The Council appointed Baker Tilly as auditors. A resolution to reappoint Baker Tilly, Chartered Accountants, as auditors will be put to the members at the annual general meeting. The Comptroller and Auditor General also examines, certifies and reports on the annual account as laid down in the Health Professions Order 2001.

Approvals Committee

Principles

The Approvals Committee was established in May 2004 as a non-statutory sub-committee of the Education and Training Committee. It has been set up to deal with aspects of course approvals, including considering visitor reports.

Objectives

The primary purpose of the Committee is to oversee the development, implementation and ongoing review of the Council's procedures for the approval and monitoring of programmes and providers.

Achievements

Since its formation, the Committee has met on six occasions. The initial focus of attention has been the development of new operating procedures, co-ordinated and managed by HPC, and replacing those previously undertaken by Joint Validation Committees and Pre-registration Education and Training Working Groups for each profession. Following a national consultation exercise on the proposed principles, detailed procedures for the approvals of programmes and providers were developed, along with associated guidance documentation and visitor training programmes.

A number of approval events have now been conducted using the new procedures and a forward programme of events has been developed. Evaluation of the initial events led to further refinement to the operating procedures. Work is currently ongoing to develop the detailed procedures for the annual monitoring of programmes with a view to this being implemented in late 2005. Further training events for visitors are also scheduled to take place during the current year

Approvals Process

The Education and Policy department is currently undertaking approvals visits to Education Providers across the UK. By the end of June 2005 over 70 visits will have been completed. From September 2005 we expect to undertake approximately 100 visits during the course of the next academic year across all the professions.

At the end of this current round of approval visits the department will undertake an analysis of the types of conditions and recommendations set at approvals visits. If trends appear across the Standards of Education and Training then this will be taken into account in the information given to Education Providers and HPC Visitors.

The Department is in the process of recruiting visitors for arts therapy, paramedic, biomedical science and ODP visits. A very successful visitor training day was held in April 2005 and an additional three training days have been planned for July, August and October 2005. The visitors' guidance documentation will be published in the Autumn 2005.

Guidance on the Standards of Education and Training is being developed for education providers to facilitate visits. This is being developed in consultation with professional bodies and with guidance from the HPC Professional Liaison Group. The Council is pleased to be working closely with the professional bodies in this regard.

A process for annual monitoring reports (AMR) is to be set up during the summer 2005, education providers will be contacted about AMR in October 2005 and we expect to receive first sets of AMR documentation in February/March 2006.

Aspirant Groups

Under the Health Professions Order, 2001 the HPC is able to make recommendations to the Health Secretary about the regulation of new professions. The Register initially opened with twelve professions in July 2003. Since then the HPC has welcomed the operating department practitioners and made recommendations to the Secretary of State for Health for a further six professions. We expect that the next new profession to join the Register will be the applied psychologists. On 10 March 2005, the Department of Health published their consultation paper on the statutory regulation of applied psychology. The consultation concludes on 9 June and it is anticipated that the applied psychologists will join the HPC Register in late 2005/early 2006.

To date, we have held discussions with over thirty aspirant groups. The professions we have recommended for regulation to date are represented by:

Applied psychologists:	the British Psychological Society;
Clinical physiologists:	the Clinical Physiologists Registration Council;
Clinical technologists:	the Voluntary Register of Clinical Technologists;
Clinical perfusionists:	the Society of Clinical Perfusion Scientists;
Medical illustrators:	the Institute of Medical Illustrators; and
Dance movement therapists:	the Association for Dance Movement Therapy UK.

The maxillofacial prosthetists and technologists will be presenting to the Council at its June meeting where this profession will be considered for recommendation.

Continuing Professional Development

The Health Professions Order (2001) allows the Council to require registrants to undertake continuing professional development (CPD) if they are to remain on the Register. The Council agreed in principle that CPD will be linked to the renewal of registration, arising from the results of its first consultation in 2002. Therefore, in September 2004 we produced a consultation paper which set out a number of proposals for draft Rules, Standards for CPD and guidance to registrants on them. We then held a number of consultation events at 23 different locations across the UK between September and December 2004.

Our consultation attracted a high level of interest and generated a large volume of responses, from organisations and individuals alike. We received almost 1,500 written responses and more than 6,500 individuals attended one of the 46 consultation events that we held throughout the UK. These two sources gave us a wealth of information, which we have used to shape our subsequent decisions.

We are in the process of finalising the Key Decisions document arising from the analysis of the consultation exercise for consideration by the Council at its meeting in July 2005.

Health, disability and registration

Work on issues around health, disability and registration first began in March 2004, when the Council held a discussion meeting for Council members and representatives of professional bodies.

The Council has established an overall policy for how it will deal with issues around health, disability and registration. The full policy is available to download from our website, but several key points from the policy are below:

Key principles behind our work

- Protecting the public

We were set up to protect the public. The protection of the public must therefore take precedence over other considerations when setting policy and strategy, and when making decisions about individuals.

- Professional self-regulation

The Council wishes to avoid unnecessary intrusion into matters which the registrant wants to keep private. As far as possible, we want to set up a system where a minimum of intervention is needed to protect the public, and where registrants actively participate in their own regulation, making professional opinions about their own fitness to practise and adjusting their practice accordingly.

- Outcomes not methods

All registrants must meet our Standards of Proficiency.

How those standards are met is not a matter for us, unless there is an alleged breach. This means that registrants can make adjustments to the way that they practise, and as long as they continue to meet our standards, they need not be concerned that they need to involve us in their continuing fitness to practise.

- Our expectations of all registrants

We expect all registrants to restrict or to adapt their practice where any factor (health, disability, conduct, or anything else) may affect their fitness to practise. This is a general expectation which applies to all registrants, not only those who consider themselves to have a health or disability issue, or who have alerted us to it.

- Registration and employment

There is a fundamental difference between being registered as a health professional and being employed as a health professional. It is very important that registration is never seen as a guarantee of employment. Fitness to practise is not a guarantee of the opportunity to practise, and it is not the same as fitness to work.

Managing fitness to practise

The Council has drafted a document entitled 'Managing fitness to practise' which talks about the steps that registrants can take to manage their fitness to practise, to ensure that they keep to our standards, and that they can remain registered. This document is to provide more information for people on our Register who are concerned about their fitness to practise, and willing to take steps to ensure that the public is protected. This document will be consulted on later in 2005 before it is published.

Professional Liaison Group

The Council agreed to set up a Professional Liaison Group (PLG) to look at drafting further guidance on these issues. We set up a group which included Council members (professional and lay), representatives from professional bodies, from education, and from disability groups, to advise the Council.

The group agreed to draft two documents:

- 'Information about the health reference'; and
- 'Becoming a registered health professional'.

'Information about the health reference' will contain information for applicants to the Register about our health reference, and also information for doctors who are asked to complete the health reference for their patient.

'Becoming a registered health professional' will contain information for disabled people about becoming a health professional, and will also contain information for admissions staff working in approved courses, who deal with applications from people with disabilities.

Both of these documents will be the subject of a consultation before they are published. During the consultation we will seek input and ideas from a wide variety of stakeholders, we will publish the documents online, and we will take account of comments and ideas received when we amend the documents.

Meetings of the PLG

October 2004	Discussion meeting: the group shared ideas about the HPC's approach, and the work that the group could undertake.
February 2005	Planning meeting: the group agreed a workplan, and had group discussions about the audiences for the documents, the queries raised, and the structure.

Further planned meetings (at the time of printing this document)

April 2005	First draft meeting: the group will discuss a first draft of each of the documents, and possible amendments / omissions / improvements
June 2005	Final draft meeting: the group will agree a final draft that they can recommend to the Council.

Advertising

One of our adverts from the 2004/2005 campaign

Background

In 2004, the Health Professions Council became the first health regulator to advertise. The aim of the adverts was to raise public awareness through three simple, key messages; who we are, what we do and how to contact us. Following considerable market research with members of the public, we realised that awareness about the HPC was very low; a direct advertising campaign was an ideal opportunity to begin raising awareness about the HPC and our function.

Our aims

The main aim of our advertising campaign is to raise awareness amongst the public. The adverts were specifically designed to appeal to members of the public who had not previously heard of the Health Professions Council. The adverts are purely informative and use humour to convey a serious message about rogue practitioners and the risk they pose to the public. Our message was simple; who we are, what we do and how to get in touch.

July 9th 2005

This date has always been a key issue in our advertisement development. The transitional period or 'Grandparenting' closes for 12 of the 13 professions regulated by the HPC and we saw this is a unique opportunity to base the pre-July campaign around. Our message has gradually become more serious in the build up to the deadline which we hoped would appeal to the public and alert any people still using a professional title who were not registered.

Mediums

Our target audience was identified as being women with children as they are most likely to make their families health decisions. Another key audience is the elderly as they are more likely to use the services of private practitioners. We identified a number of key titles that would best reach our target audience. Adverts appeared in titles such as Asda Magazine, Boots Health and Beauty, Sainsbury's Magazine, Zest, Top Sante and Saga Magazine. Adverts also appeared in a number of sports titles. We also ran a four week campaign from October to November on Saga FM that broadcasts to over 1.2 million listeners per week in the West and East Midlands, Glasgow and on the digital network.

We also began advertising on yell.com. A banner appears if a member of the public searches for a health professional for example 'dietitian' or 'physiotherapist'. The advert encourages them to check their health professional is registered by directing them to our website.

Audience Reached

We reached over twenty million people with our adverts in 2004/2005. The feedback we have received from members of the public and stakeholders has been positive and encouraging. An increasing number of health professionals are requesting public information leaflets and posters, particularly those working in private practice which is helping us to get our message across to patients about regulation and protected titles.

Forthcoming Advertising

Due to budget constraints we are unable to advertise on television; however we are hoping over the next year to expand to buses and tubes to advertise and to further explore radio opportunities. We will also be mailing posters to doctor's surgeries so that the public will see our adverts when they are most receptive to messages about health and wellbeing.

To see our print adverts and listen to our radio adverts please see the HPC website: www.hpc-uk.org

Our website www.hpc-uk.org

Over the past twelve months the Communications department has been involved in further developing the HPC website and in developing the new website to be launched in May 2005.

The website remains the most cost-effective and efficient way of making large amounts of information available to large numbers of people, and we have consistently utilised the website as a tool to communicate news quickly and effectively to our registrants and stakeholders. The website is the best way of keeping up to date with our work, and what we are doing.

24 hour access

We want to make sure that all the information stakeholders require is available on-line so people don't have to wait until our office opens to find the information they require. We also want to make public information about what we do, and who we are available outside office hours.

New website

Later this year we will be launching our new website. This has been designed based on feedback received during market research conducted with registrants and members of the public. The new site will be more user friendly, contain more information and be easier to maintain.

To achieve our aims we needed to completely re-design the site, and ensure that the new design is fully compliant with external measures of accessibility, including accessibility for people with disabilities.

Accessibility

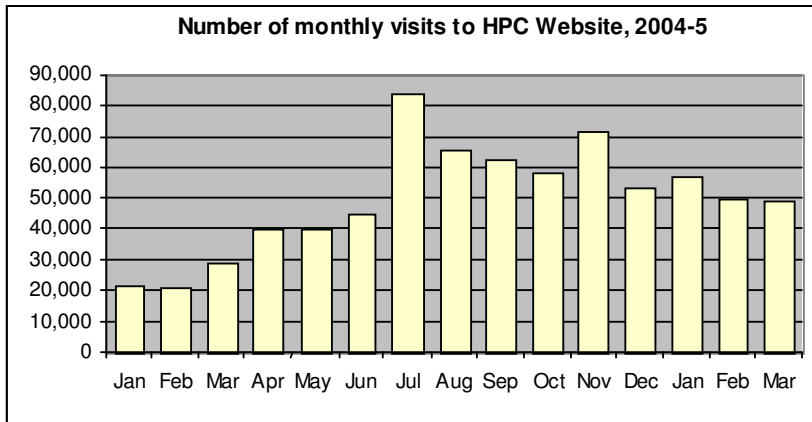

The new website will be designed to be as accessible as possible.

To make the website easy to view, we have designed it in accordance with guidelines laid down by the Web Accessibility Initiative (WAI) and the Royal National Institute for the Blind (RNIB).

Measures we have taken to ensure accessibility

- using meaningful ALT text for all images to provide descriptive text
- using descriptive hyperlink text
- avoiding the use of frames, which are difficult for special browsers to interpret
- using an easy-to-see web colour scheme
- using an easier to read non-serif font type, size and colour.

The number of people visiting the HPC website each month:

Publications index - www.hpc-uk.org/publications/

All our publications are available on-line. They are available to download in plain text or as a PDF. Some are available in alternative languages. We only print a limited number of publications each year so we try to encourage people to print off their own copies from the website.

'Apply' section - www.hpc-uk.org/apply/

All our forms are available on-line along with extensive guidance about how to complete your application.

Fitness to practise - www.hpc-uk.org/complaints/

Each time a case is well-founded, we post information online including the allegation, the panel's decision and direction (for example: striking off, or a caution), the transcript of the hearing, and a news release which is sent to the local press.

In addition, information about upcoming future hearings is posted online.

This section of the website is called 'complaints' as we thought that 'fitness to practise' might not be understood by all users of the website. It also contains information on how to make an allegation against a health professional, and how to contact us about our levels of customer service.

Health regulation worldwide

This section of the HPC website attempts to list in one place all relevant bodies involved in the regulation of health professionals, throughout the world. This is an ambitious and ongoing piece of work, which depends as much on visitors to the site emailing in information as it does on HPC Council members' information, and staff research.

During the past year, this unique resource has been moved from 'static' web pages onto a database format. This means the information stored about each organisation is easier to sort and search, easier for us to maintain, and easier for the user to access.

The site only lists the web addresses of regulators and professional bodies; it does not list postal addresses or telephone numbers. This means that the information can be kept accurate and up-to-date with a minimum of resources. Information about health regulators across the globe can be required by many people, from health professionals who want to practise outside the UK, to other regulators who want to know whether their applicant has ever been struck off by another regulator. We hope that this area of the site will continue to grow, and to be a source of useful information to visitors to our website.

Future issues

We hope to have on-line renewals and application forms available in the near future allowing people to renew their registration and apply to be registered 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. We may also develop a private registrants section, making it easier for registrants and the public to determine what information is relevant to them.

Your input

If you have any comments to make about the HPC website, either good or bad, please get in contact with us at webmaster@hpc-uk.org

We welcome constructive feedback that will help us to make the site useful, and make the information that you need easily available.

Customer Service

Throughout the past year, customer service at the Health Professions Council (HPC) has progressed rapidly. The two new major developments in this area are the customer service database, and the implementation of customer service standards initially in the registration departments, and then to the whole organisation by the end of 2005.

Customer Service Standards

The HPC recognises the importance of its registrants and values the relationship it has with both internal and external customers. In an effort to maintain and continuously improve the quality of these relationships, organisational customer service standards have been set.

These are a powerful way of shaping the image our stakeholders have of the organisation, and a clear indicator for each HPC employee as to what level of service they should be achieving, or aiming to achieve. customer service standards help us show evidence of service consistency and reliability, and ensure all our customers feel they are being treated in the same way.

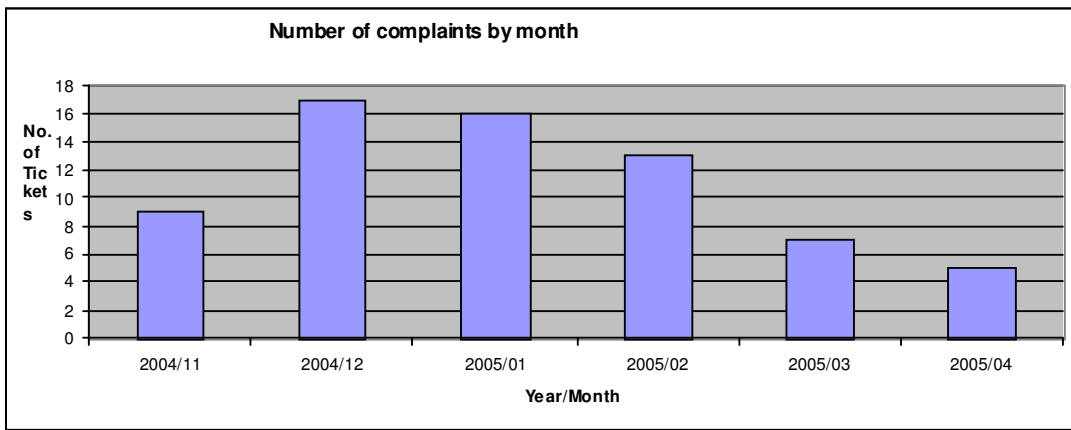

To achieve the highest level of customer service possible, customer service standards are vital in measuring how well each employee meets the level of service to which we aspire. With the introduction of these standards across the whole organisation, we can pinpoint exact training needs across departments, as well as on an individual basis.

Customer service database

Over the past year, many changes and developments have taken place in this area of the organisation. One major development is the implementation of a customer service database. This allows all correspondence to be tracked as soon as it reaches the HPC, until a response is sent out. This means that we can check whether our service level agreements are being achieved, whilst also having one central database, where all the complaints and positive feedback can be stored, and referred back to at any point.

Using charts produced from the database (see example below), we can identify the major problem areas in the organisation and which department they may be occurring in, as well as the 'type' of problems.

As you can see from the following diagram, the new database allows us to track the number of complaints we receive each month, as well as identifying any peaks and troughs in the number of complaints received. Other information extracted from the database can pinpoint specific 'problem' areas; at this stage it is the task of the customer service manager and relevant departments involved, to work out how to solve the problem with a long term solution that will help the business run more effectively, and reduce the number of complaints received from our customers.

A Chart showing the number of complaints received per month from November 2004.

Events

Events play an important part in ensuring continuing and positive dialogue between HPC and our stakeholders. Last year was our busiest year yet for events, including a nationwide consultation on CPD and our inaugural partners' conference, as well as continuing both our listening event programme and attendance at a variety of external conferences.

CPD Consultation events

During the autumn of 2004, we held 46 events over 10 weeks at 23 venues across the UK. These events consisted of a presentation on our proposals for CPD followed by a 90 minute Q&A session to a panel of Council members. We had a phenomenal response to these events with over 7,000 people attending, providing varied and detailed feedback to the consultation.

Listening events

These events are designed to give registrants and the public the opportunity to see and hear first hand how the HPC is progressing and give feedback on how we can improve. Over the last 12 months we have run 10 events at 5 different locations nationwide. In 2004 we visited Aberdeen, Bournemouth and Bristol, and in February 2005 we held events in Manchester and Blackpool. These events were all well attended and covered a wide variety of topics. Popular areas of interest have included CPD, queries over scope of practice and registration and growing interest in what we are doing to prevent the misuse of protected titles. Comments and feedback we receive at these events play a significant role when developing future HPC strategy and regulation of health professionals.

Partners' conference

Over 250 partners attended our first partners' conference in September 2004, at the Palace Hotel in Manchester. The aim of the conference was to introduce partners to the workings and work of HPC whilst strengthening their relationship with HPC. The conference was very positive and we hope to continue holding this type of event every two years.

Annual meeting

HPC's annual meeting will be held at Park House on 8th July 2005.

Registration seminars

We held a series of events at universities around the UK aimed at programme leaders for approved courses. They were designed to explain in detail the process for UK graduates to apply to be registered with the HPC. These seminars have proved very helpful in increasing understanding of HPC's processes amongst education providers and applicants, and aim to make the application process simpler and more efficient. We received positive feedback from these events in 2004 and are planning to hold a total of 8 more events in April and May, this year.

The Council

Recruitment

After the Second transitional period (this July), registrant and alternate members will be elected by the registrants from their own profession and the President will be elected by Council members. The Health Professions Order, 2001 states that a member may not serve more than three consecutive terms in a row.

Lay members are appointed by the Privy Council and may be reappointed. However, they have no automatic right to be reappointed. The Privy Council can appoint any additional or replacement lay members after advertising in the national press and by following guidance from the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments.

Terms of Office

The term of office for Council members is usually four years. However, the term of office for the period following the first elections will be of a length to be specified by the Privy Council. The Privy Council has made its decision as follows:-

Registrant Council Members

Election in 2005 to hold office until 2006 (one year)
Physiotherapists, occupational therapists, radiographers

Election in 2005 to hold office until 2007 (two years)
Biomedical scientists, paramedics, chiropractors and podiatrists

Election in 2005 to hold office until 2008 (three years)
Speech and language therapists, operating department practitioners and dietitians

Election in 2005 to hold office until 2009 (four years)
Clinical scientists, arts therapists, orthoptists, prosthetists and orthotists

Alternate Council Members

The term of office of alternate Council members will be four years.

Thereafter the term of office of all Council members will be four years.

Council Member Biographies

The five principles of good regulation

Proportionality

Regulators should only intervene when necessary. Remedies should be appropriate to the risks posed, and costs identified and minimised.

Accountability

Regulators must be able to justify decisions, and be subject to public scrutiny.

Consistency

Government rules and standards must be joined up and implemented fairly.

Transparency

Regulators should be open, and keep regulations simple and user friendly.

Targeting

Regulation should be focused on the problem, and minimise side effects.

The Better Regulation Task Force is an independent body that advises Government on action to ensure that regulation and its enforcement agree with the five principles of good regulation. Their publication 'Principles of Good Regulation' was last revised in February 2003 and is available on their website at www.brta.gov.uk

Government departments and independent regulators should use them when considering new proposals and evaluating existing regulations.

Method of appointment or election of Council members:

The Council currently comprises 40 members (the President and 13 other practitioner members, 12 lay members and 13 alternate members) appointed by the Privy Council in accordance with the transitional provisions in Schedule 2 to the Health Professions Order 2001. As of May 2005, the Council consists of 13 registrant members who are appointed on being elected under the Council's election scheme, 13 lay members who are appointed by the Privy Council and 13 alternate members appointed on being elected under the Council's election scheme. The numbers of registrant and alternate members (i.e. 13) is linked to the number of professions currently regulated by the Council. There is an alternate member for every registrant member, alternate members having the same functions as registrant members but are only able to vote if registrant members are not present. There must be at least one lay and registrant member for each home country within the United Kingdom.

The objectives of the Council

The Council, a body corporate, was set up on 1 April 2002 by the Health Professions Order 2001. The principal functions of the Council are to establish from time to time standards of education, training, conduct and performance for members of the relevant health professions and to ensure the maintenance of those standards. As part of its functions the Council maintains the register of members of the relevant health professions and its main objective in the exercise of its functions is to safeguard the health and well-being of persons using or needing the services of registrants.

Organisational structure

Four statutory committees exist to deal with the fitness to practise of professionals registered with the Council, investigating complaints and the establishment and monitoring of training and education standards: Education and Training Committee, Investigating Committee, Conduct and Competence Committee and Health Committee. In addition, five non-statutory committees have been set up: the Finance and Resources Committee (to which an Audit and a Remuneration Committee report), the Registration Committee and the Communications Committee. All committees are chaired by a member of the Council.

The Council has the following departments under a Chief Executive and Registrar: Communications, Education and Policy, Finance, Fitness to Practise, Human Resources, Information/IT, Office Services, Registration (International and Grandparenting), Registration (UK) and Secretariat.

The Professions Supplementary to Medicine Charitable Trust

The Professions Supplementary to Medicine Charitable Trust existed as a subsidiary to the Health Professions Council and income was distributed to the Charity under covenant to enable the charity to support its objectives. The charity ceased to operate on the 31 December 2004. The results for the year of the charity were £nil (2004: £100). The results of the charity and a list of its objectives are published in full in their financial statements. Copies of the full financial statements can be obtained by writing to the Principal Office of the Health Professions Council.

Form of financial statements

In accordance with Section 46(1)(b) of the Health Professions Order 2001, the Financial Statements have been prepared in a form directed by the Privy Council in its Accounts Direction, which complies with the HM Treasury Guidance on the preparation of accounts for non-Departmental Public Bodies, as if the Council was a non-Departmental Public Body (NDPB) of the Department of Health.

Financial results

There was an operational deficit of income over expenditure of £56,031 (2004 £597,201) for the year, which is set out in these financial statements. Total recognised losses for the year totalled £56,031 (2004 £564,455). At 31 March 2005 reserves had reduced to £743,706 (2004 £1,050,853).

By 4 August 2004, all professions were paying an increased fee of £60 per annum, which had been progressively phased in from September 2003 (previously £22). The profession of Operating Departmental Practitioners was added to the register in December 2004 and generated income of £160,490. Investment income, including gains or losses on sale of investments, totalled £127,438 (2004 £62,505).

No grants were received from the Department of Health in the year. £251,116 was withdrawn from the capital grant reserve of £606,866 to fund the depreciation of the new computerised registration system, leaving a balance of £355,750.

The balance sheet of the organisation shows fixed assets totalling £3,959,464 (2004 £4,388,822). Of this tangible fixed assets continue to be largely the freehold land and buildings and the computerised registration system. The investment portfolio is managed by stockbrokers and was worth £1,346,804 (2004 £1,203,107) at 31 March 2005. Cash at bank and on deposit rose to £2,821,797 (2004 £2,407,980). There was deferred income of £4,860,348 (2004 £5,064,591), being registration and renewal fees received in advance.

An operational surplus is anticipated for the year ending 31 March 2006, which will increase the accumulated fund.

Since the year end the Council has acquired a new property in Stannery Street. Details of this transaction can be found in note 18 of these financial statements.

Identified Misappropriation of Funds

In May 2005, the Council identified that £133,263 had been misappropriated as a result of the misuse of corporate credit cards within its finance branch. See note 4 for more detail and the impact on these financial statements.

As a result of this occurrence, the Council engaged a firm of forensic accountants to undertake an investigation of accounting practices that resulted in the irregularities and to undertake a review of related internal systems to assess their vulnerability to fraud. The Council are addressing the identified weaknesses in financial control. See Statement on Internal Control at pages 6 and 7.

Council and committee member expenses and fees

Following a review of how the HPC reimburses Council and Committee member allowance fees and expenses, it was found that the Council would have an obligation to pay the associated PAYE and National Insurance on expenses and National Insurance contribution on Attendance allowance fees paid. On review of the expenses and fees paid in the last three years, it was noted that a total of £304,000 should have been paid as PAYE and Employer's National Insurance and hence has been provided for in the year.

Better payment practice code

It is Council policy to observe the principles of the better payment practice code by settling all undisputed invoices within 30 days. By the end of the financial year this was being attained in most cases. No interest was paid during the year under the Late Payment of Commercial Debts (Interest) Act 1998.

Disabled employees and equal opportunities

The Council is an equal opportunities employer and provides employment opportunities and advancement of all suitably qualified persons regardless of age, sex, religion, ethnic origin, marital status, dependants, disability or political beliefs. The Council does not regard disablement as a bar to recruitment or advancement; selection is based upon the ability of the individual to do the job.

Employee involvement

The Council places considerable reliance on the involvement of its employees. It makes every effort to ensure that all staff are kept informed of the Council's plans and developments. The main channels of communication include regular all-staff meetings, fortnightly meetings of the Executive Management Team and e-mail.

Health and safety

The Council is committed to adhering to the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 and other related UK and European requirements to ensure that employees and visitors enjoy the benefits of a safe environment.

AUDITORS

On 19 May 2005, BDO Stoy Hayward resigned as auditors. The Council appointed Baker Tilly as auditors. A resolution to reappoint Baker Tilly, Chartered Accountants, as auditors will be put to the members at the annual general meeting. The Comptroller and Auditor General also examines, certifies and reports on the annual account as laid down in the Health Professions Order 2001.

Statement of Responsibilities to the Council and its Chief Executive in Respect of the Accounts

The accounts are prepared in accordance with the Accounts Direction from the Privy Council which requires the accounts to be prepared in accordance with HM Treasury Guidance on the keeping and preparation of accounts for non-Departmental Public Bodies.

The Health Professions Order 2001 requires that annual accounts are prepared and audited. The Council and the Chief Executive (as Accounting Officer) are responsible for the preparation and the approval of accounts. In preparing those accounts they are required to:

- observe the application accounts direction issued by the Treasury;
- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- follow applicable accounting standards, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the accounts;
- prepare the accounts on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Council will continue in business.

The Council and its Chief Executive are responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Council and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the provision of the Health Professions Order 2001. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the Council and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

The Accounting Officer for the Privy Council has appointed the Chief Executive as the Accounting Officer for the Council. His relevant responsibilities as Accounting Officer, including his responsibility for the propriety and regularity of the public finances and for the keeping of proper accounting records, as set out in the non-Departmental Public Bodies' Accounting Officer Memorandum issued by the Treasury and published in Government Accounting.

Accounting Officer's Statement of Internal Control

Scope of responsibility

As Accounting Officer, I have responsibility for maintaining a sound system of internal control that supports the achievement of the Council's policies, aims and objectives, whilst safeguarding the Council's assets for which I am personally responsible, in accordance with the responsibilities assigned to me by the Privy Council.

The purpose of the system of internal control

The system of internal control is designed to manage risk to a reasonable level rather than to eliminate all risk of failure to achieve, policies, aims and objectives; it can therefore only provide reasonable and not absolute assurance of effectiveness. The system of internal control is based on an ongoing process designed to identify and prioritise the risks to the achievement of the Council's policies, aims and objectives, to evaluate the likelihood of those risks being realised and the impact should they be realised, and to manage them efficiently, effectively and economically.

Capacity to handle risk

The Council vests the responsibility of its risk management process in its Executive Management Team, which is responsible for formulating methods of mitigating identified risks and for formulating a business continuity plan. The Executive Management Team are responsible for ensuring that employees are fully briefed and trained where necessary.

The risk and control framework

Current risks have been evaluated and appraised as to possibility of occurrence. This is an ongoing process and the Finance and Resources Committee reviews the risk assessment twice a year. Where risks are considered to be high or medium risks, the organisation strives to find ways of reducing the risks.

It is based on a framework of regular management information, administrative procedures including the segregation of duties, and a system of accountability. In particular, it includes:

- Consideration of the Council's strategic objectives in reacting to change brought about by UK legislation and other external pressures;
- Reviewing operating procedures particularly with regard to having the right infrastructure in place, including employees being properly briefed and trained in order to maintain and improve service standards;
- Ensuring that corporate governance best practice, as appropriate to the Council, is maintained and updated to meet changing requirements;
- Comprehensive budgeting and forecasting systems with an annual budget and an ongoing 5-year plan which is reviewed and agreed by the Council;
- Regular reviews by the Finance and Resources Committee of monthly and annual financial performance against forecasts;
- Setting targets to measure financial and other performance, including individual goals and objectives for departments and managers;
- Clearly defined procedures for the authorisation and control of revenue and expenditure;
- Operating within the dictates of the Standing Financial Instructions and Financial Procedures Manual;

- Clear documentation of all operating procedures has resulted in ISO accreditation.

Review of effectiveness

As Accounting Officer, I have responsibility for reviewing the effectiveness of the system of internal control. My review of the effectiveness of the system of internal control is informed by the work of the internal and external auditors and the executive managers within the organisation who have responsibility for the development and maintenance of the internal control framework, and comments made by the external auditors in their management letters and other reports.

Significant internal control problem

A theft of £133,200 by HPC's Finance Director, brought to my attention through the whistle-blowing procedures, has cast doubt over the adequacy of the risk and internal financial control framework operated by the Council. As a result of the occurrence, the Council and I sought the resignation of the Council's internal and company external auditors and I immediately commissioned an independent investigation into the cause of the criminal activities, together with a review of the robustness of internal financial systems. The Council and I have received two reports from the review team and we are completing the process of implementing the recommendations. I have appointed a Finance Manager to oversee the implementation of the recommendations and to update and develop financial processes.

Council and committee member expenses and fees

Following a review of how the HPC reimburses Council and Committee member allowance fees and expenses, it was found that the Council would have an obligation to pay the associated PAYE and National Insurance on expenses and National Insurance contribution on Attendance allowance fees paid. On review of the expenses and fees paid in the last three years, it was noted that a total of £304,000 should have been paid as PAYE and Employer's National Insurance and hence has been provided for in the year.

To augment the skills of the Audit and Finance & Resources Committees, two senior, external accountants have been appointed, one to each Committee, to help critically review the operations of the financial employees and auditors. The Council is also appointing a new firm of Internal Auditors.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF HEALTH PROFESSIONS COUNCIL

We have audited the financial statements on pages 74 to 92.

This report is made solely to the company's members, as a body, in accordance with section 235 of the Companies Act 1985. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the company's members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditors' report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the company and the company's members as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinion we have formed.

We certify that we have examined the financial statements on pages 74 to 92 in accordance with Section 46(2) of the Health Professions Order 2001. These financial statements have been prepared under the historic cost convention as modified by the revaluation of certain fixed assets and the accounting policies set out on pages 79 and 81.

Respective responsibilities of the Council, the Chief Executive and the Auditor

As described on page 65, the Council and the Chief Executive are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements in accordance with the Health Professions Order 2001 and Privy Council directions made thereunder, and for ensuring the regularity of financial transactions. The Council and its Chief Executive are also responsible for the preparation of the other contents of the Annual Report. Our responsibilities, as independent auditors, are established by statute and we have regard to the standards and guidance issued by the Auditing Practices Board and the ethical guidance applicable to the auditing profession.

We report our opinion as to whether the financial statements give a true and fair view and are properly prepared in accordance with Section 46(1)(b) of the Health Professions Order 2001 and Privy Council directions made thereunder, and whether in all material respects the expenditure and income have been applied to the purposes intended by Parliament and the financial transactions conform to the authorities which govern them. We also report if, in our opinion, the Foreword is not consistent with the financial statements, if the Council has not kept proper accounting records, or if we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit.

We review whether the statement on pages 65 and 66 reflects the Council's compliance with Treasury's guidance on the Statement on Internal Control. We report if it does not meet the requirements specified by the Treasury or if the statement is misleading or inconsistent with other information we are aware of from our audit of the financial statements. We are not required to consider, nor have we considered, whether the Accounting Officer's Statement on Internal Control covers all risks and controls. We are also not required to form an opinion on the effectiveness of the Council's corporate governance procedures or its risk and control procedures.

Basis of audit opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with United Kingdom Auditing Standards issued by the Auditing Practices Board. An audit includes examination, on a test basis, of evidence relevant to the amounts, disclosures and regularity of financial transactions included in the financial statements. It also includes an assessment of the significant estimates and judgements made by the Council and Chief Executive in the preparation of the financial statements, and of whether the accounting policies are appropriate to the Council's circumstances, consistently applied and adequately disclosed.

We planned and performed our audit so as to obtain all the information and explanations which we considered necessary in order to provide us with sufficient evidence to give reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement, whether caused by error, or by fraud or other irregularity and that, in all material respects, the expenditure and income have been applied to the purposes intended by Parliament and the financial transactions conform to the authorities which govern them. In forming our opinion we have also evaluated the overall adequacy of the presentation of information in the financial statements.

Qualified opinion because of irregular expenditure arising from the misappropriation of funds

As disclosed in Note 4 of the financial statements, the Income and Expenditure account includes the write off of cash losses to expenditure of £119,636 arising from the misuse of corporate credit cards.

In my opinion:

- the financial statements give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Health Professions Council at '31 March 2005' and of the surplus, total recognised gains and losses and cash flows for the year then ended and have been properly prepared in accordance with Article 46(1)(b) of the Health Professions Order 2001 and directions made thereunder by the Privy Council; and
- except for the write off of expenditure arising from the misappropriation of funds, in all material respects the expenditure and income have been applied to the purposes intended by Parliament and the financial transactions conform to the authorities which govern them.

I report if it does not meet the requirements specified by Treasury, or if the statement is misleading or inconsistent with other information I am aware of from my audit of the financial statements. HEALTH PROFESSIONS COUNCIL ACCOUNTING POLICIES

BASIS OF PREPARATION

These financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention modified to account for the revaluation of fixed assets at their value to the business by reference to their current costs and in accordance with applicable accounting standards.

CONSOLIDATION

Until 31 December 2004 the financial statements consolidated the financial position and result of the Council and its wholly-owned subsidiary, the Professions Supplementary to Medicine Charitable Trust. The Trust ceased to operate on 31st December 2004. The income and expenditure account provided on page 74 is for the Council alone. The financial results of the Charitable Trust are shown in note 16.

TANGIBLE ASSETS

Individual assets costing £1,000 or more are capitalised and subsequently depreciated. Items costing less than £1,000 are written off to the income and expenditure account in the year of acquisition.

Depreciation is provided to write off the cost or valuation, less estimated residual values, of all fixed assets over their expected useful lives. It is calculated at the following rates:

Freehold buildings	- 2% per annum (over 50 years)
Office furniture and equipment	- 25% per annum (over 4 years)
Computer equipment	- 25% per annum (over 4 years)
Registration system software	- 33% per annum (over 3 years)

Freehold properties are revalued in accordance with FRS 15 with a full valuation carried by professionally qualified Chartered Surveyors on an existing use open market value basis, in accordance with the Statement of Assets Valuation Practice No. 4 and the Guidance Notes of the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors, every five years.

GRANT INCOME AND EXPENDITURE

All revenue grants receivable are included in the income and expenditure account when they are received. All costs relating to the refurbishment of freehold buildings have been expensed in the income and expenditure account on the basis that these costs do not necessarily enhance the value of the properties. Grants received in respect of the registration system software have been taken to the Capital Grant Reserve, which is applied over the useful life of the software.

FEE INCOME

Fee income (comprising registration fees, readmission fees, renewal fees and pre-registration fees) is recognised on an accruals basis according to the period to which it relates.

INVESTMENT INCOME

Bank deposit interest is credited on a received basis. Dividends and interest on fixed interest securities are recognised when due.

INVESTMENTS

Investments are listed on a recognised stock exchange and are included on the balance sheet at market value.

COMPUTER SOFTWARE

Computer software, other than the registration system software, is charged to the Income and Expenditure Account in the year of acquisition.

DEFERRED TAXATION

Deferred tax is recognised in respect of all timing differences that have originated but not reversed at the balance sheet date where transactions or events that result in an obligation to pay more tax in the future or a right to pay less tax in the future have occurred at the balance sheet date. Timing differences are differences between the Group's taxable profits and its results as stated in the financial statements that arise from the inclusion of gains and losses in tax assessments in periods different from those in which they are recognised in the financial statements.

PENSIONS

Contributions to the FlexiPlan defined contribution pension scheme (see Note 15) are charged to the income and expenditure accounts in the year in which they become payable. The assets of the scheme are held separately from those of the Council in an independently administered fund.

NOTIONAL COSTS

In accordance with Treasury guidance, a notional charge for the cost of capital employed in the period is included in the Income and Expenditure Account along with an equivalent reversing notional income to finance the charge. The charge for the period is calculated using the Treasury's discount rate of 3.5% applied to the average value of capital employed during the period.

VALUE ADDED TAX

The Council is not registered for value added tax. All costs incurred are expensed in the income and expenditure account.

The freehold property at Park House, 184 Kennington Park Road, London, SE11 4BU and also comprising 20 Stannary Street was valued at 5 December 2003 on the basis of Existing Use Value as defined by the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors, Appraisal and Valuation Standards, at the sum of £1,700,000. The valuation was prepared by Drivers Jonas, Chartered Surveyors, of Grosvenor Street, London who acted as independent valuers.

The historic cost of the property was £1,659,254 (2004: £1,659,254) and accumulated depreciation based on cost was £278,893 (2004: £245,708).

Although it is the Council's policy to apply Modified Historic Cost Accounting in line with our Accounts Direction, full Modified Historic Cost Accounting has not been implemented again this year. This is due to the fact that the effect of revaluing assets will make no material difference to the results for the year or the financial position at the year end. This may not be the case in the longer term and this premise will be reassessed annually.

15 PENSION FUNDING ARRANGEMENTS

The Council has pension obligations to both present and former staff. These are met by the operation of The Council for Professions Supplementary to Medicine Retirement Benefits Scheme and contributions to the FlexiPlan 1 Scheme operated by FPS Trustee Company Limited ("FlexiPlan").

The first scheme was closed in June 1995 and has no active members. On 28 March 2002 all members of the Scheme were served with a statutory notice of closure. The benefits are secured by insurance policies issued by The Scottish Life Assurance Society. The last actuarial valuation as at 23 April 2001, showed that the assets of the fund were sufficient to meet the future requirements of the scheme.

FlexiPlan is a money purchase scheme which offers a targeted final salary benefit. It is a multi-employer scheme and, as such, is exempt from the full disclosure requirements of FRS 17 as each employer is unable to identify its share of the underlying assets and liabilities.

16 THE PROFESSIONS SUPPLEMENTARY TO MEDICINE CHARITABLE TRUST

The Council controlled the Professions Supplementary to Medicine Charitable Trust which is Registered Charity No. 313795 and which operated at the same premises as the Council until it ceased operating on 31 December 2004. The Trust's financial results for the period to 31 March 2005 are as follows:

17 RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Council's Sponsoring Department is the Privy Council, with whom no transactions took place. The main entity with which the Council has dealt during the year was the Department of Health. Grants were received from the Department of Health in 2003 for the development of the Council's registration system. The system was capitalised and depreciated over 3 years. The grant of £251,117 (£146,485) represents the amount released from the balance sheet during the year. There have been no transactions with Council members except as disclosed in note 3.

18 POST BALANCE SHEET EVENTS

On 31 May 2005, the Council acquired a new property in Stannery Street for £930,000. The property was purchased by acquiring the entire issued share capital of Purbrook & Eyres Limited. Consideration for the property was partly in cash and partly via a £500,000 loan taken out with National Westminster Bank plc. The loan is repayable over 47 equal monthly instalments. Interest on the loan is charged at 2% above the Bank's Base Rate.

20 FRS 13 FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

FRS 13, Derivatives and Other Financial Instruments, requires disclosure of the role which financial instruments have had during the period in creating or changing the risks an entity faces in undertaking its activities. Because of the largely non-trading nature of its activities and the way in which it is financed, the Health Professions Council is not exposed to the degree of financial risk faced by business entities. Moreover, financial instruments play a much more limited role in creating or changing risk than would be typical of the listed companies to which FRS13 mainly applies.

Financial assets and liabilities are generated by day-to-day operational activities and are not held to change the risks facing the Council in undertaking its activities.

As permitted by FRS13, debtors and creditors which mature or become payable within twelve months from the balance sheet date have been omitted from the currency profile.

CURRENCY AND LIQUIDITY RISK

The Council currently has no borrowings and relies primarily on fees and Department of Health grants for its cash requirements and is therefore not exposed to liquidity risk. All material assets and liabilities are denominated in sterling, so it is not exposed to currency risk.

INTEREST RATE RISK

Registrants pay fees in advance for up to two years. Surplus funds are held as follows to maximise returns:

Business reserve - all unused funds are transferred from the Council's current account to business reserve account every night to maximise interest.

Money market - surplus funds are held for fixed short-term periods earning a fixed interest rate.

Investment fund - at 31 March 2005 fixed interest investments accounted for 16% (2004: 23%) of the fund and generate a yield of 6.1% (2004: 6.5%). The remainder of the fund is invested in equities, where there is always a known risk of diminution in value.

The Finance and Resources Committee reviews interest rates on potential borrowings although during the year the Council was not exposed to significant interest rate risk.
